DELIBERATE SUICIDE.

The Rev. James A. Caywood Ends His Life.

HE WAS EVIDENTLY INSANE.

A few weeks ago the Rev. James A. Caywood, a Methodist Minister, whose home was near Sardis, was tried before Judge Hutchins and a Jury for insanity.

In his wisdom the Jury pronounced him of sound mind, in face of the fact that he had declared an irresistible passion at times to take his own life, and that he had made several attempts to do so.

Tuesday he was admitted to the County Infirmary, and throughout the day appeared pleased with the surroundings and talked rationally with his fellow inmates.

Several times he got up during the night, as stated by his room-mates, the last time about 3 o'clock, but they thought nothing of it and dropped off to sleep.

About 5 o'clock Wednesday morning he was found hanging by a stout leather strap pendng from a bracket of the portico fronting his cottage.

When Superintendent Ed. Slattery reached the body it was still warm, though life was extinct.

The strap was carefully arranged with a slip knot, and the body was in the kneeling posture, and the unfortunate man had literally choked himself to death—all going to show that his self-murder was deliberate.

Mr. Caywood was about 50 years of age, had been married several times, and it is learned that he had his share of domestic troubles.

Covered Ross held an inquest, returning a verdict of suicide.

The remains were turned over to relatives for interment.

ALTOGETHER DIFFERENT. He looked upon his daughter with a vain and swelling pride: He was glad to see her in the social swim: But he looked and swelled and swelled and looked until he nearly died: As he counted up the cost when the bills came in. —Philadelphia North American.

RUNAWAY.

William Fristoe Thrown Out and Run Over.

ANOTHER FORTUNATE ESCAPE.

These was a narrow escape from death on Union street about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Mr. William Fristoe, son of Mr. William T. Fristoe of Forest avenue, was driving along that thoroughfare with a cart.

The tailboard fell out, the horse frightened and there was a fully developed runaway on tap in about four seconds.

Mr. Fristoe was thrown out and in the wheel of the heavy cart passed over him. It was at first thought that he was internally injured, as he spit up considerable blood.

The horse kept on until he reached the neighborhood of Mr. Delmore Daulton's at Second and Poplar, when the cart struck a tree and the animal "stripped" himself of cart and all other encumbrances.

At last accounts Mr. Fristoe was improving and was considered out of danger.

ONE PROFITABLE "JAG."

A Drummer Who Made a Gilt-Edged Investment.

C. J. Bailey of Parkersburg drew $7,500 out of the Commercial Bank of this city yesterday as the earnings of a $300 investment, made involuntarily and unknowingly less than a month ago, says a Wheeling telegram to The Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Bailey is a traveling salesman. A little less than a month ago he made a trip through the oil fields, and while at Sistersville got in with a crowd of oil men, with the result that the next day he had a big head, a very poor recollection of what had happened, and was $300 short, according to his memorandum book. He wisely decided that the less publicity he gave the loss the better it would be, and kept still.

On Friday he was coming to Wheeling on the Ohio River Railroad when a stranger approached him with the words: "You are C. J. Bailey, I believe?" "Yes," replied Bailey.

"Well, you will find $7,500 to your credit in the Commercial Bank at Wheeling," replied the stranger. "I put it there day before yesterday, and was about to advertise for you."

Bunko was the first thought of Bailey, but as the stranger did not ask for any show of money and talked all right, Bailey asked for an explanation. It turned out the stranger was one of the men with whom Bailey had been out in Sistersville, and that he was also the Secretary and Treasurer of an oil company, which had struck a rich well in the back country pool two weeks before. Bailey, while irresponsible, had put $300 into the company's capital stock on the advice of one of his friends, and in the meantime the well had been drilled, coming in a gusher of 3,000 barrels a day, making for the company a net income of about $3,500 a day, one-tenth of which belonged to Bailey on his $300 investment.

Bailey came to Wheeling, and yesterday morning went to the bank and found the money there waiting him. He drew
